Frankenstein--Chapters XIII-XIV

Directions: It is clear from the text that Felix clearly got duped. We can safely say that Felix is infuriated with what happened to him and his family as a result of the help he gave to Safie's father. Writing from Felix's perspective, compose a strongly worded, angry letter to her father complaining about his behavior and the anger associated with what he has done. What will Felix do as a result? How does his behavior show he is taking the moral high ground?
